President Reservelt tried that during the last yours of his administration, ec deavoring to bring Western editors to Washington for trial because the papers ulated in the District of Columhis. The Western courts refused to surcrly that they were entitled to a trial in the jurisdiction of their residence President Rossevelt could not drag Western editors to Washington for trial, how can President Wilson legally do it?

The case is broader even than the question of free press, for it directly incolves a personal liberty that is as ald as Anglozon jurisprudence.

Under the construction which Mr. Wallace places upon the law, there ien't drummer, nor a merchant, nor a fertiliter agent, nor insurance agent who would be secure from Northern prosecu tion. On trumped-up charges of fraud in obtaining credit, of dishonesty in not maying bills, and similar offenses, every othern man who represents, travels for, and buys things from a Northern or Eastern firm or individual, could be dragged out of the State of Georgia and carried to New York, or Chicago or Boston, for trial. Such a condition of things would be absolutely revolutionary, destructive of that personal security and personal right which Englishmen enjoyed long before the days of Magna Charta.

What will the people of this and other states think of the Georgia delegation, if it silently permits this outrage to be perpetrated upon a Georgian?

What will the people of other States think of the Governor of Georgia, elected in part by my voluntary and unselfish support, if he files no protest against the ng about to be inflicted upon one of his supporters-and old friend and former colleague?

I again request you to introduce the resolutions demanding an investigation, in order that it may go into the Congressional record and be read throughout the country.

I also request that you embody this letter in your remarks on the floor, so that the letter may appear if the record. In a case like this, without precedent and without law, the cause of one is the cause of all.

That conspiracy case Mr. Wallace rees on, where one of the criminals operated in Washington, while his confederate operated in Wall Street, has no bearing at all on my case. It takes more than one to make a conspiracy, and all the conspirators can be tried where any one of them lives. One of these criminal Jews lived in Washington, the other in New York; the government chose to try both in Washington, and it had the right to do so, because they were both principals in the crime; but the government did not take either of them to a State where neither of them Reed; it did not attempt to try them in Massachusetts or Illinois.

In my case there are no agents, no confederates, no co-conspirators and no conspiracy.

There isn't a word of obscenity in the Frank articles, nor one single line that lies, he must be dung into a Roman Catholic jurisdiction; if he has offended violates any law. That is a consideration very worthy the attention of this Demoeratic administration, for the people of the South, at least, would hold it responsible for whatever tragedy might happen and murder; there was no threat to drag from the high-handed proceedings against a Southern man.
